Criminal Calendar For June Trial Term Of County Court Here

On Regular Calendar of 27 Cases.
There Are Two Murder Charges—
Supplemental Calendar of 18 Cases Of Abandonment And Failure To Support Minor Children.

District Attorney Cleon B. Murray has prepared his criminal calendar for the June trial term of county court and the calendar will be taken up at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. This week is being devoted to disposition of civil cases before Judge Tracy.

The June calendar is one of the longest which has been presented in some time. There are 37 cases on the regular criminal calendar and there is a supplemental calendar of 18 cases for violation of Sections 44-45, abandonment and failure to support minor children. These cases of late have been growing in number. For years there were no abandonment cases in Ulster county but a few months ago they began to make their appearance and at each term the number of cases has increased to such an extent that a special calendar has been prepared. Many of the cases will not be moved for trial as the defendant has agreed to pay toward the support of his family. In such cases the matter is held open as long as the defendant continues to pay.

On the regular criminal calendar are two murder charges to be heard. Both are second degree charges.

Heading the calendar is the case of The People vs. Alexander Kish, a charge of murder growing out of the death of George Marks last March. Kish is charged with killing Marks at the old Federation House on lower Hasbrouck avenue. According to the police record and statements made at the time Marks resided on the premises. There, too, Mrs. Kish resided. Kish is alleged to have come to town from New Jersey and gone to the house apparently in search of his wife. She was out visiting and there Kish and Marks met. Marks was found dead when Mrs. Kish returned and went to the Marks apartment to take some clothing there which she had removed from the line. When she entered the apartment she stumbled over Marks' body and the police were notified. On arrival at the house they detected the odor of gas and on going to a room in the building found Kish stretched out overcome from gas which was revived and later charged with murder. This case will be moved as it heads the calendar. William H. Grogan appears for defendant.

Second Murder Charge.

The second murder charge is that against John Mancuso who is charged with shooting Anthony Damino on April 21 in the lower part of the city. Mancuso and Damino, it is alleged, had been at odds for some time. On the evening of April 21 Damino saw Mancuso on the street and attempted to avoid him but was shot down. Later Mancuso walked into police headquarters and gave himself up. He was charged with murder, second degree, by the June grand jury. Chris J. Flanagan appears for him and as this is a very recent indictment it may not be tried at this term. District Attorney Murray has announced in court that he would move the case for trial but it is expected that counsel for defendant will ask for further time to prepare for trial.

Disarmament Agreement of Real Value, Declares Ambassador Davis

Action By France and Great Britain Paves the Way For Solving the Disarmament Problem, If That Problem Can Be Solved, Says U. S. Ambassador-at-Large—Sees Good Effect Upon Germany.

Geneva, June 8 (AP)—Norman H. Davis, United States ambassador-at-large, said today that the disarmament agreement reached last night between France and Great Britain is of real value and paves the way for solving the disarmament problem. If that problem can be solved, Davis said, it will have a good effect upon Germany.

The American will leave next week for London to represent the United States at the preliminary conference looking toward the Naval Conference of 1935.

Davis said a reconciliation actually had been reached between France and England, despite the acrimonious discussion early in the week and that this reconciliation takes into account both governments' position.

Speaking in behalf of the United States delegation, Davis said that the agreement did not mean attainment of disarmament immediately but it did mean that France and Great Britain now can deal with the problem in a constructive manner.

He believes that this Franco-British agreement will have a good effect upon Germany and that the nations which are interested in peace will hail it as a good augury.

Davis explained that the American delegation acted as mediators between the French and British diplomats saying that the United States has an interest in everything that promotes stability and good will.

He declared that France and Great Britain now have recognized that, if they are going to reach an agreement, they also have to reach an understanding with Germany.

Reports that Chancellor Hitler and Premier Mussolini of Italy may meet in Venice to discuss Germany's possible return to the disarmament conference were circulated in Geneva today.

It was even conceived possible, if things go well, that Louis Barthou, foreign minister of France, might visit Berlin on his return from a trip he will make soon to Rumania.

The compromise resolution presented to the disarmament committee provides that the steering committee, with a view to a general acceptance of a disarmament treaty, is invited to seek the means it deems appropriate for a solution of outstanding problems "without prejudice to private conversations upon which the governments will desire to enter in order to facilitate the attainment of final success by a return of Germany to the conference."

NRA Soon To Place Ready-Made Code For Industry Before U. S.

Plan Will Provide For Miscellaneous Groups Whose Parts Are Incomplete—Secondary Industries To Be Given Voluntary Choice.

By JAMES COPE
Washington, June 8 (AP)—The NRA will announce soon one big ready-made code for several hundred miscellaneous industries whose parts have not yet been applied.

This basic code will be almost as simple as the president's re-employment agreement with which the Blue Eagle started its flight a year ago. It aims to give the minor industries regulations which will be easily understood, yet reach the NRA's chief objectives. These are:

Shortened hours to make more jobs, wages not below living levels; recognition of labor's right to organize and bargain; prohibition of commercial dishonesty and the obvious forms of unfair trade practice.

The small, secondary industries will be given opportunity to subscribe voluntarily. If they want more elaborate trade practice regulations they will be required to present the signed assents of 85 per cent of their firms.

Determined to simplify NRA's work, officials have pushed toward completion a plan to consolidate scores of codes already approved. In the end there will be not more than 500 codes in place of 450 already approved.

The "ready-made" or "clean-up" code plan arose from the discovery that codifying the small industries has been absorbing a disproportionate amount of time and money, which should be devoted to major problems.

The base code will permit price reporting through a central independent agency, along the lines laid down in NRA's price policy announcement of yesterday. If a firm fails to figure which appears entirely out of line with costs, it may be called upon to justify it. Otherwise there will be no restrictions.

The 40-hour week will continue as the standard. Wages will be either at the $12 a week factory minimum of NRA's first code, covering textiles, or close to it. The southern $1 a week differential is expected to be continued.

JURY TAKEN IN CASE BEFORE COUNTY COURT.

The action is an promissory note. Plaintiff seeks to recover and defendant defends on the theory that he endorsed a note as an accommodation only. John A. Bonomi appears for plaintiff and Joseph Koopman for defendant.

Judge Traver announced that the criminal calendar would be taken up Monday afternoon and probably some matters would be disposed of but he did not anticipate any criminal trials next week and in that event civil matters would be continued next week. Trials are expected in criminal matters the following week.

Dorothy Dell, Screen Star, Killed in Crash

Daughter of New Orleans Lumberman a Victim When Escort's Car Left Roadway Near Pasadena—Driver May Die.

Pasadena, Calif., June 8 (AP)—Dorothy Dell Goff, daughter of wealthy retired New Orleans lumberman, who attained spectacular prominence in motion pictures within the last several months, was killed early today in an automobile accident.

Her companion, Dr. Carl Wagner, 28, prominent Pasadena surgeon, who was questioned by authorities several months ago in connection with the unsolved murder of Dr. Leonard Steyer, also a well known Pasadena surgeon, was probably fatally injured.

Miss Goff, known on the screen as Dorothy Dell, and Dr. Wagner had just left an Alhambra Inn after a gay party, police said, when the dentist's large sedan plunged off a road, snapped off a light pole and came to rest at the bottom of a ditch.

The automobile, police reported, was telescoped to half its normal length.

Miss Dell, who also was known as Mickey Dell, lived but a few moments after the accident, police said.

Miss Dell appeared opposite Victor McLacien in the recent release "What Angel," had a featured part in "Little Miss Marker," and had just completed her third starring vehicle, "Shoot the Works," which was previewed at Paramount studios only last night.

Miss Dell was born in Hattiesburg, Miss. She won the beauty title of Miss Universe in 1932 at Galveston, Texas. She was 20 years old.

No complications have developed, the physician explained, but he did not want to take any chances.

The five tiny sisters, nestled in incubators, have recovered from an attack of jaundice.

Dumping Bait Harms Fishing

Washington, D. C., June 8.—Many fishermen, unknowingly, ruin the fishing in good lakes when they try to keep the fish, according to a bulletin of the American Game Association. Here's what happens. At the end of the fishing trip, such a fisherman dumps all of the live bait he has left into the water to feed the fish. He never thinks of some of these minnows escaping and growing up to devour or destroy the environment of the game fish. The carp minnow is a fair example. Game fishing is full of carp. These minnows are hardy and grow fast. They are sucker feeders and not only eat all of the vegetation in the lake but uproot it as well—and then gobble the game fish. Like-wise, goldfish, wildfowl, for their vegetable food has been destroyed. This vegetation either serves as "food" for the game fish or else attracts minute aquatic life upon which they feed. The same is true of wildfowl. Do not dump minnows, the association urges.

The post office department has announced a consolidation of the four rural routes emanating from the post office at Kingston into three routes, effective July 1. Consolidation will follow the retirement of Ernest J. Ritch, carrier on the existing route No. 1, on June 30.

Under the plan of consolidation as approved by the post office department, part of the existing route No. 1 will be transferred to route No. 3, the balance of the route remaining route No. 1 as at present. A part of the existing route No. 4 will be transferred to route No. 2, and the balance of route No. 4 will be consolidated with route No. 1 to form the new route No. 1.

The new route No. 1 will start at present at the Boulevard, going by way of the Rosendale road to DeWitt Mill, thence to the Beyerdsdorfer corner, Sauer Hotel corner, King Mushroom Company and retrace to DeWitt Mill. From that point the route will be to Greenhill Park, thence to the forks of the Whiteport and Eddyville roads, to the Diamond corner, West Shore Railroad crossing and thence to Route 9W, which will be followed to the Hasbrouck corner. Slightsburgh will be served as at present, after which the carrier will proceed through Kingston and begin serving the section along the Flatbush road, East Kingston and the balance of the route as it is now served, returning by way of the Tuxten Bridge road, Lake Katrine road, Saugerties road, Neighborhood road and Saugerties road as far as Lawrenceville street. The carrier will be John H. Waterman, at present carrier on route No. 4.

The new route No. 2 will start at present on Pearl street extension, serving Mountain View avenue, Grand View avenue and Main street extension, then taking in Lucas avenue, Merritt avenue, Merellina street and the adjacent streets and avenues which are now served by the carrier of route No. 3. When this section has been served, the carrier will return to Washington avenue, the route passing over the Esopus creek, where the existing route No. 2 will be taken up and continued through Hurley Woods, Zena road and adjacent roads, to Sawkill, returning thence to the Plank road and over the Esopus creek into Kingston. From Washington avenue the carrier will proceed to Lawrenceville street, serving the Esopus avenue section, Harwich street, Hinsdale avenue and adjacent streets and Richmond Park, returning by way of Wrentham street, all of which streets now are a part of route No. 4. These streets will be served in the same order as at present and at practically the same time. The carrier will be Edward J. Wortman, who now serves the existing route No. 2.

Route No. 3 will begin on Lucas avenue beyond Catskill avenue, and will pass along Lucas turnpike to Binnewater village, which section from the Van Etten corner now forms a part of the existing route No. 1. After serving Binnewater village, the carrier will follow the existing route No. 1 to Kallopp corner and thence to DeWitt Mill corner and follow the road leading to Lucas turnpike at Van Etten corner, completing what is known locally as the Binnewater loop. At Van Etten corner, the carrier will take up his present route, passing through Hurley and along the Marletown road to the Basten corner, over the Cantine bridge, through Lapala and completing the loop which ends at Lomontville. The road between Lomontville and the Cantine bridge will be served, the carrier retracing to the Warren corner, thence across the Hurley suspension bridge, through Hurley and returning to the post office, as at present. The carrier will be Richard J. Emerick, who now serves the existing route No. 3.

Two surveys of the existing routes with a view to consolidation have been made by post office inspectors, as a result of which work the routes as outlined above have been adopted as the most practical.

EXPERIMENT GIVES MR. RAT A FANCY PERMANENT WAVE

Philadelphia (AP)—A rat with a permanent wave and a curly coat has been developed in breeding experiments by Dr. Helen Dean King at Wistar Institute.

The curly rats appeared during breeding experiments which seek more information about the laws of heredity. Although commercial uses are outside her aims, Miss King has suggested that rats with curls or unusual coloring might have commercial value for furs.

Among her rats are breeds with chocolate, cinnamon and pale lacin-colored coats. In 20 years of study she has found evidence that the mutations—the changes which produce new varieties of plants and animals—occur most frequently among rats in the litters of very old or very young parents.

This indicates to her that the germ cells of very young or very old mammals act more variably than those of animals in middle age.

The curly rat came from a long line of straight-haired ancestors, but now his curly-haired breed is well established.

Chile's Unemployed Dig Gold Santiago, Chile (AP)—The government's gold mining program for helping unemployed resulted in the production of 9,350 pounds of fine gold last year, an increase of 267 per cent over 1932.

Poughkeepsie Boy Wins Cadet Honors

Cadet Captain Stanley P. DuBois of Poughkeepsie, was today declared the number 1 graduate of the New York Military Academy, Cornwall-on-Hudson, N. Y. He will receive the Head Boy Medal, highest academic award at the academy.

DuBois, who will celebrate his seventeenth birthday on graduation day, is one of the youngest cadets ever to win the Head Boy honor and one of the youngest to hold the grade of Cadet Captain. He expects to enter the University of Pennsylvania in the fall.

Prevent Forest Fires

Washington, June 8.—Break that match! Be ever so careful of fire on the fishing streams and in the woods now. Of 300 forest fires started in the west during the drought thus far, all but one was started through the carelessness of men with fire, according to tabulations. Lightning started the lone fire. When one breaks the lighted match, then he is sure it is out or else he will discover mighty quickly that it isn't. What's a little search compared with forest fire taking the toll of wildlife, maybe human life, and destroying millions of dollars worth of other people's property. Break that match!

Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know why external remedies so seldom give quick and permanent relief? Why cutting does not remove the cause. Do you know the cause of Piles is internal?

That there is congestion of blood in the lower bowel—the veins flabby, the parts lifeless?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy for itching, bleeding or protruding piles discovered by Dr. Leonard and known as HEM-ROID that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause. It stimulates the circulation in the lower bowel—drives out the thick impure blood, and restores the affected parts. HEM-ROID is so successful in even the most stubborn cases that McBride Drug Stores and all good druggists advise every sufferer to get a bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets today—take them as directed—then if not completely satisfied with results—your money back—Adv.

ACTIVITIES AT ALBANY AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church has arranged for a picnic this Saturday, June 9, at Riverside Park, beyond Hurley. Those who come before noon will bring their own picnic lunch. About six o'clock there will be supper for all, followed by a camp fire and singing. Many sports are planned for the afternoon and a very pleasant time is anticipated. The society is also arranging for a dramatic entertainment to be given in the assembly hall of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church on Wednesday evening, June 13, at eight o'clock. This will consist of a series of plays and will be very entertaining. The young people are busy preparing for this event. A number of the young people expect to attend the State Christian Endeavor Convention to be held at Newburgh from June 25 to July 1.

Epworth League Conference Here

Tri-District Conference will be held Sunday at Clinton Avenue Methodist Church.

Sunday afternoon and evening sessions at Clinton Avenue Methodist Church will be the scene of a Tri-District Conference of Epworth Leagues. Under the leadership of the Rev. R. D. Ocheltree of Windham, the Leagues of Poughkeepsie, Newburgh and Kingston districts will gather for departmental conferences and addresses.

The afternoon session will open at 2:30 with registration and a devotion address by the Rev. Howard McGraw of Clinton Avenue Church. The Junior League of Clinton Avenue will sing at this devotion service.

Departmental conferences will be under the direction of Mrs. D. N. George, Miss Myrtle Berg, the Rev. J. C. Eason, the Rev. E. C. Tamblin and the Rev. Walter Scranton. Following the conferences there will be a social period.

A banquet will be served at 6 o'clock in Epworth Hall, at which time greetings will be brought by Wesley Malm, New York area Epworth League president, and the superintendents of the districts represented, Dr. Hartsock, Dr. Weyant and Dr. Chasey.

The evening session at 7:30, to which the general public is invited, will be addressed by Dr. Mark A. Dawber, superintendent of rural work of the Board of Home Missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Dr. Dawber spent many years in active work which he did so effectively that he was called first to a chair in Boston University, and then to his present position. He is a splendid speaker with a helpful message.

CHILDREN AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH THIS SUNDAY

The 10:45 service on Sunday morning June 10 at St. John's Church, Albany and Tremper avenues, will be conducted by the young people of the church. During the usual morning prayer service the lessons will be read by Adrian Cumberly and William Essenden. Wesley Van Nattan will lead in the reading of the 127th psalm. The sermon, "Appreciation of the Church School," will be delivered by William Kraft and Robert Hawksley will sing the offertory. Several of the tiny tots will add their bit to the service with a few religious passages. The hymns will be chosen from the children's portion of the hymnal. Frederick Holcomb will make the announcements. All members of church school are asked to be in their places at 9:15 instead of the usual time of 9:10.

The Los Angeles board of supervisors had to transfer money to the county's expense account and when it was found the account amounted to only 50 cents.

MURDER AT MOCKING HOUSE

BY WALTER C. BROWN

Chapter 39
 PUMPING WHITMORE

THE Sergeant's meditations were interrupted by the return of John Whitmore with the spoils of his tour through the house. The booty was entirely devoid of interest except for the fact that it was Mrs. DuPont's. Harper didn't really care, but he did take the opportunity to poke through the rest of the papers, then sent Whitmore to dispose of the trash, telling him to return afterwards.

While he was gone Harper ran through this latest collection of stuff, carefully covering the recent visit of his Uncle. But once again the almost insupportable gravity of the recent times defied reconstruction. The lady was either distraught or wary.

Whitmore returned to the breakfast room with the sleek air of a successful conspirator. The detective realized that in this place, where the hands of the household had his best chance to get some genuine "inside" information.

The detective rose and locked the door with a theatrical flourish. "I don't want any interruptions for a while," he explained, as he returned to his chair. "Sit down, John, and make yourself comfortable. What do you say to a friendly little chat?"

Whitmore hitched his chair a bit closer. "Yes, sir. Anything I can do?"

"Oh, before we talk," Harper interrupted, "there's a little test I want to make." He then explained about the hand-lettered warnings and put Whitmore through the same paces with the dictated notes, first leisurely, then rapidly.

"Just as I expected, no similarity at all," Harper announced heartily, putting the sheets aside. "Now that's out of the way, we can relax." He drew out his pipe and tobacco pouch. "Do you smoke, John?"

Whereupon John produced a curved briar pipe even more scarred from use than Harper's own and accepted a filling from the detective's pouch.

For a few moments they puffed away in silence. "This is good tobacco, sir," Whitmore commented, nodding his head sagely.

Harper smiled. "I have the mixture made up specially for me," he explained. "I smoke a lot and it's worth the difference in price. There's nothing like a pipeful of good tobacco when you've got a bit of thinking to do."

John nodded agreement. "I guess this business has given you plenty of that, sir. It's a queer one, all right."

"As queer as any I've ever handled," said Harper, gazing thoughtfully into the circular view of the room projected on the Girandole mirror over the buffet.

"Two murders in one night—right here in this room," Whitmore almost whispered. "It doesn't seem real."

"It was real enough for the poor devils who were killed. You knew Officer Hamill, didn't you, John?"

"Yes, I knew him. Talked to him lots of times last summer. A nice, pleasant fellow."

"He was a fine man and a good policeman. Everybody liked him, John, from his Captain down. He leaves a wife and children and it's going to be hard on them. The other fellow may have been a crook or a blackmailer, or a gunman, and the world's better off without him, as Mr. Dufresne says, but the family of a man like Hamill has to pay the price for it."

Whitmore nodded in sympathy. "I've heard what they have to say about the murder upstairs," Harper went on. "And that's very little to go on. What I have been wondering, John, is what the staff thinks about it?"

"They're not saying very much and that's a fact," Whitmore answered, and chuckled. "Between you and me, sir, you've got 'em all suspicious of each other. They're going around watching each other out of the tail of their eyes."

"Have there been any arguments or bad feelings lately?"

"Nothing to speak of, Sergeant. We all get along together pretty well, better than in most places. Of course, once in a while old Andrews gives Joe a raking over the coals, but that's only when Joe has been too flip with his tongue. Joe's young and hot-headed, not as well broken to the harness as the rest of us."

What the mystery of Ellen Becker, Harper wondered tomorrow.

soil erosion can be reduced to a minimum, thus holding the water for absorption to replenish the underground table. In other words, these experts would merely follow the plan of Nature, in fact restore it, before man upsets it during the drainage craze. Built dams in creeks, non-navigable rivers, draws, scoop out low depressions and make ponds. These will aid in bringing about control of rainfall, officials of the American Game Association declare.

Y. W. Girls' Clubs Holding Banquets

The Girl Reserves of the Y. W. C. A. have been holding a series of mother and daughter banquets at the association this week, each of the clubs having entertained their mothers at this annual event.

The five grade school groups held their party on Tuesday evening, and the hall was crowded to capacity. The room was attractively decorated and a delicious menu was served under the direction of Mrs. Charles Terwilliger and Mrs. G. N. Wood, who also had charge of the banquet on Wednesday and Thursday evenings. The singing of appropriate songs and some clever stunts planned by the girls themselves, made a very interesting program.

On Wednesday evening, the members of the Tri-Hi and Live Y. W. Clubs of the high school entertained their mothers. A special feature of this event was the formal initiation of the younger girls into the Tri-Hi Club by means of a very effective candle-lighting ceremony. Girl Reserve rings, which must be earned before worn, were awarded to the following: Mrs. A. Noble Graham, chairman; Miss Shirley Boylston, Miss Dorothy Brooks, Miss Granger Stewart, advised, and the Misses Shirley Ball, Helen Barten, Lois Crough, Elma Smith and Frances Vreeland. Mrs. Mortimer Downer and Mrs. Kenneth Parish were also awarded Girl Reserve plaques in recognition of their work as advisers, and the grade school girls presented Miss Lillian Herdman, girl reserve secretary, with an attractive gift to show their appreciation of her splendid service to them.

The Cheerio Club held an enthusiastic banquet on Thursday evening with general singing and a program in which all the members participated. They also conducted a ceremonial when Miss Alanah Brodhead and Miss Marjorie Morton were awarded the Girl Reserve rings.

The total attendance at the three affairs was 251 and all the mothers expressed their appreciation of the delightful time given them by their daughters, and are already looking forward to next year's banquet.

A PARACHUTE ALIBI

NETS THE BEAN THIEF

Rome (AP)—A parachute plover is Rome's latest contribution to the fraternity of thieves. He is Eneas Bersaglieri alias Alessandro.

Surprised in a bean patch by a farmer living near the peak of Monte Mario, Bersaglieri calmly began to fold up a parachute which lay wrinkled around him.

"Too bad if I've damaged your bean patch," he murmured. "My plane caught fire and I had to jump. But the farmer had been watching his beans all evening. He had heard no airplane, and turned the marauder over to the carabinieri."

Checking up they found that Bersaglieri had used the alibi afforded by a worn-out parachute on numerous successful occasions.

SCOTLAND LESS SCOTTISH SAYS CHURCH COMMITTEE

Edinburgh (AP)—That Scotland is becoming less Scottish every year "in blood, tradition and religious attachment," is the conclusion of a Church of Scotland committee after long study.

One of its greatest concerns was "the staggering growth" of the Roman Catholic church, which it laid wholly to Irish immigration. Roman Catholics, the committee figured, numbered two in every 15 residents in 1931 compared with one in every 30 in 1821.

More than one-third of the population was found to have no regular church connection.

AIDS TO BETTER

TASTING MEALS

Always wash strawberries before hulling so that no juice will be wasted.

Always wash asparagus and spinach thoroughly before cooking. One of the reasons spinach has come in for so much personal dislike in spite of its official good standing is that it often is gritty and unpleasant to eat. Decorate the spinach, too, with slices of hard boiled egg, and cream it during its final moments on the stove.

Things To Remember

Water containing baking soda, left standing in a baby's bottle, will make it sweet and clean if the original washing has not accomplished this. If you, or any member of your family, bruise easily, use arnica, which is a preventive of too much discoloration.

And do you know that aspirin will give drooping flowers a little more pep?

Talks to parents

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

Martha was one of those children who constantly had a cold in her head, and whether actually sniffing or not talked as if her nose were stopped up, and breathed noisily through her always open mouth.

At night she snored loudly, and it was only the annoyance her mother felt that made her take the child to the doctor.

He found a serious and long-neglected adenoidal condition, and performed the very slight operation necessary to clear up the nasal passages. Martha's whole appearance changed, as did her health, and she even seemed to increase in intelligence and ability at her school work.

Many children go through life physically and mentally retarded as a result of neglected adenoids. The nasal passages are so stopped with the growth that it is impossible for the child to inhale enough oxygen into his lungs. Of course the whole system is in this way depleted. The persistent mouth breather should be examined by a competent physician as soon as the difficulty starts. There is no use in tying up the mouth at night or scolding the child for keeping it open. If the adenoidal condition exists, he is either quite unable to breathe through his nose, or else does not get enough air to live and thrive on if he does.

There is also the possibility that, neglected too long, the trouble may show itself in a changing shape of mouth and nose, which are not always remediable even after the obstruction has been removed. It may affect the child's whole approach to life, by slowing up mental and physical growth and making him self-conscious and shy with other children on account of his looks.

FOOD IMPORTANT ELEMENT MAY HOLD LONG LIFE KEY

Ithaca, June 6.—The longest any animal can live depends on the species to which it belongs, how long the parents and grandparents lived, and how the animal lives, says Professor C. M. McCay of the New York state college of agriculture.

Food, he points out, is one of the most important elements in determining life span. Most facts available relate to other mammals rather than to man. All animals grow, pass through an active middle life, age, and finally die. Since the life of other mammals is generally shorter than human life, the animals can be studied through these different stages in cages and laboratories where controlled feeding is possible.

Both the quality and quantity of food can be varied. Professor McCay cites the study made with a small group of white rats that were born in the autumn of 1930. These rats, compared to rats living under normal conditions, have lived twice as long. During the first two years of their lives they were underfed which, he says, accounts greatly for their longevity. The oldest rat has achieved an age proportionate to 140 years in a human being.

In explaining what is meant by long life as related to species, he points out that nature endows certain animals with the ability to live long. Thus a turtle can live one hundred times as long as a rat. Likewise, the child whose parents and grandparents lived to ripe old ages has a far better chance of doing the same than the child who comes from parents who die young.

BRITISH START VOLUMES FOR LIBRARIES OF 2084

London (AP)—A set of books that may not be finished for a century and a half, is in the making here.

It is "The Complete Survey of the Historical Monuments of England" which was begun in 1908 when a royal commission was set up by parliament. London's monuments alone take up five volumes.

Similar commissions are carrying out surveys in Wales and Scotland, through their tasks aren't half as large.

Jack—It had a big depression in the middle of it.

The way some folks hand out a dime tip you would think they were going to ask for a receipt.

Junior—Laugh and the class laughs with you.
Teacher—But you stay after school alone.

If they finally succeed in harnessing the water power of Niagara what will become of the honeymoon trade?

A man looking at some neckties in a department store tossed one or two aside rather contemptuously.
Lingering after having made his purchase, he noticed that the clerk had put those he had so positively rejected into a separate box.

Man—What becomes of them?
Clerk—We sell them to the women who come in here to buy ties for men.

Now that the chorus girls have had a raise in salary the school teachers and preachers are beginning to have hopes.

A child told his teacher that his father was very ill of ammonia.
Teacher—You mean pneumonia.
Child—I guess I oughta know, I saw him drink it.

Every time a boy sprinkles the lawn he's glad his father didn't bring him up to be a freeman.

Edith—Why did Eloise break the engagement?
Janice—He was so untrustworthy.
She found he was engaged to four other girls and he had only told her of two.

A lot of men are forever trying to adjust their religion to fit their business.

Junior—Daddy, how can you tell when a man is drunk?
Dad—Well, son, do you see those two men over there? Well, if they were intoxicated they would look like four.

Junior—But, daddy, there is only one!

One good laugh a day is better than medicine providing it isn't at your expense.

Coleslaw—Did that young plumber you had working at your house appear to have had much experience?
Cavlar—Did he? Why he had to go back to his shop three times for tools he had forgotten to bring.

Expectant father—Posterity is just around the corner!

There is one thing that law of supply and demand does not govern, and this is the making of mistakes.

Designer—Then you don't care for this futuristic art?
Buyer—No; let the people of the future enjoy it.

And a good paint job persuades a lot of men to keep their old wives another year.

Mrs. Deere—How modestly she dresses and how sensibly!
Mrs. Sneers—Yes; that woman will do anything to attract attention.

It may be better to forgive but it pays better to forget.

MR. SCHELM WRITES ABOUT THE NEW DEAL

Editor, Kingston Daily Freeman,
Kingston, N. Y.

Dear Sir:

A tremendous amount of propaganda is being spread of late against those activities of the New Deal which have to do with curtailing agricultural and industrial production. The battle cry of these champions of free and ruthless competition is, that we can not solve the paradox of want amidst plenty by abolishing the plenty. Before we allow ourselves to be carried away by this feigned solicitude for those in want let us see (1) if the New Deal does away with plenty and (2) what these propagandists propose to do about this want amidst plenty if they had governmental control.

Up to the present there has been no indication that there might be a scarcity of any commodity, agricultural or manufactured. It is quite apparent that at the end of the year there shall still be a surplus of wheat of from one to three hundred million bushels. Practically the same situation exists in regards to cotton, tobacco and other basic crops.

In regards to manufactured goods the same situation prevails, and I defy any one to name one article of which there is a scarcity due to actions of the New Deal. How a greater surplus of unsalable goods can help us to regain prosperity has never been revealed. It is small comfort to the hungry that five hundred million bushels of wheat could have been in storage instead of only a possible hundred million, in excess of that which is marketable, if nothing is coming their way in the form of bread. What do millions or even billions of yards of cloth in the warehouse mean to the ragged if no clothing is forthcoming?

If the venerable Ogden L. Mills tries to make us believe that if he breaks upon production were removed from production return with a rush, one is inclined to believe that he is talking through his venerable hat.

The new deal has not done away with plenty, Ogden L. Mills' tirades to the contrary notwithstanding.
Neither has it abolished want. But since this is its objective, and since it has not confessed its ability to do so, that is no reason why it should be abandoned, inasmuch as it has made some progress. Instead of abolishing the New Deal we should have more of it. Let the government see to it that all unemployed are being put to work, at their respective trades and professions as far as possible, so that they once again might enjoy the fruits of their labors.

Private business still feels reluctant to do so, a little positive persuasion should go a long way.

There is no point in excluding one-third of this nation's population from its commercial activities, mass production without mass purchasers is but a chimera. It is necessary that the nineteenth century readers of Julius Verne should have derived more comfort from our scientific age than the poorer participants in this venture are getting?

One might not agree with anyone who claims that the world owes him a living, but one can not disclaim the fact that this nation owes its unemployed the right to earn a living. No previous administrations have recognized this, and while we are somewhat impatient with the slowness with which the New Deal moves, it gave promise of moving in the right direction. So let us be wary of those who propose to scrap the New Deal without giving definite assurance of their ability and willingness to improve upon it. If one further recognizes that these same gentlemen have over the years in this depression, in which they were primarily concerned with saving their own hides instead of finding way to distribute the surpluses, which were clogging the wheels of progress, one must be excused from taking their change of heart not too seriously.

New Deal Shows Loss Of Favor in Mid-West

Sailors Give Blood To Leukemia Victim

Fight for Control Now Republican Objective

New York, June 8 (AP).—Although maintaining a favorable ratio of 3 to 1, the new deal shows a loss of popularity in midwestern agricultural regions and an increasing support in industrial states, according to a poll in the fourth report today of the Literary Digest poll on President Roosevelt's acts and policies.

The latest returns gave the administration an approving vote of 370,451 to 235,423 opposing. Of the 25 states reported in the current tabulation, only Maine and Vermont are in the dissenting column.

In comparing the current poll with 1932 election percentages, Roosevelt vs. Hoover, the Literary Digest says it finds a slump in the President's popularity among some of the mid-western states—namely Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Wisconsin.

On the same basis, there is shown an increase of popularity in the industrial east—Connecticut, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania.

New York, June 8 (AP).—The navy—in part, at least—was 13-year-old Rose Binona's to command today for blood.

The child is gravely ill of leukemia in a Long Island hospital. Her father, Frederick Binona, appealed in a letter to Admiral David F. Sellers, commander-in-chief of the fleet now anchored here, for blood donors.

The appeal was broadcast to the men of the battleship Pennsylvania. Thirty-two volunteered. A drawing reduced the number to 12 and from this group L. E. Warner, second class seaman of Oakland, Calif., was selected for the first transfusion yesterday. He gave a pint of blood.

A. W. Stibitz, a third class seaman, will be next. Others will follow, if needed.

Competition for the 12 places was spirited, several who failed to draw "lucky" numbers trying to buy them.

Warner said Rose, who was "awful white", thanked him weakly and then her family crowded around. "I got in a corner, I didn't know what to do," he said. "They were all thanking me at once."

Rose improved after the transfusion.

Young King Holds Quiet Anniversary

Bucharest, Rumania, June 8 (AP).—Carol II, king of Rumania, who has reigned only four years but in that time has been more often in the news limelight than most monarchs in a lifetime, today celebrated the fourth anniversary of his enthronement.

It was, at the same time, the fourth anniversary of Prince Mihai, eleven years old, as crown prince. The sudden return of his father from Paris in 1930 cut short his career as a boy king.

Father and son stood together this morning on a balcony of the palace and reviewed a procession of mayors who had come from all the cities, towns and villages of Rumania for the celebration.

It was far from the spontaneous outburst of popular enthusiasm such as greeted Carol when he suddenly swooped from the clouds to seize his throne. But four years of hard times have been Rumania's lot since then.

The marching mayors, however—many in picturesque peasant garb—cheered lustily for Carol and his son, lifting their hats in the air as they passed the palace.

Home Bureau Picnic.

The members of the Kingston unit of the Home Bureau will hold a picnic and project planning meeting at Forsyth Park on Tuesday, June 12, at 1 p. m. A good attendance is desired. Miss Vance and Miss Cushman of State College will be guests.

Chicago, June 8 (AP).—A fight for control is the immediate definite objective of the Republican party.

Assured by Henry P. Fletcher, national chairman, that many seats in the lower house could be won in the fall elections, the executive committee planned a co-ordinated and united attack on the Roosevelt "New Deal".

Results of Fletcher's first conference with party leaders shattered another Republican tradition. All intra-party organizations, the national, congressional and senatorial campaign committees, will work for the first time as a unit to win the nation away from theories of the Roosevelt administration.

The vital task of winning back the agricultural west probably will be directed from Chicago, with a western manager in charge. The national headquarters of the party will remain in Washington.

Fletcher spent a busy day yesterday, but found time to make an unexpected talk over the radio in which he defined the aims of the party in the impending elections. One paragraph of his brief talk attacked sharply governmental waste.

No official appointments were made yesterday. Fletcher hurried back to Pennsylvania to attend a meeting of the Republican State committee Saturday.

Huge Bar Arrives At McCabe's Tap Room

A large new bar to be installed in the new McCabe tap room on Wall street adjoining the present restaurant was unloaded this morning and finally placed in the building.

The bar was a high one and there was some difficulty in getting it in the building. At first an attempt was made to pass it through one of the front windows but it proved to be too large. Several volunteer superintendents quickly made their appearance on the scene and advanced numerous suggestions ranging all the way from sawing the bar in two to removing the front of the building in order to get it through.

The matter was finally solved by trimming off short sections of excess wood at one end and passing it through the side door. By expert manipulations it was finally safely housed.

At Clinton Ave. Church

The annual Children's Day exercises of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Sunday school will be held in the church Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock. The members of the school should meet in the school room at 10:15 o'clock that morning. Flowers for decorating the church should be taken to the church Saturday afternoon. Dictatorships In Baltic States Applauded By Foreign Envoys

By ALBERT W. WILSON.
 London (AP)—Foreign diplomats accredited to Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania applaud establishment of dictatorships in those Baltic buffer states, one of the steps at which said on a recent date.

While unwilling to allow himself to be identified in an interview, he said the recent change to an authoritarian government in Latvia had pleased the triad of war-born nations as a comparable footing internally, with their neighbors, the Soviet Union, Germany and Poland.

"In all three countries the trouble has been the lack of parties and the importance of governments," he said. "Foreign observers in all three capitals are in sympathy with the new order of things."

Patriotic Officials Praised.

"This particularly is true in Estonia where a liberal, enlightened element has seized control. All foreigners agree there are no finer leaders in that country than President Konstantin Päts and General J. Laidoner, the George Washington of Estonia."

"In Latvia Gen. J. Balodis, the 'father' of that nation, and K. Ulmanis, who recently became prime minister for the fourth time, head a similarly admired government. Lithuania's foreign colonies consider that a good regime is in control there."

Ulmanis, who used to be a lecturer at the University of Nebraska, is ruling with an iron fist, the diplomat said, but he is a man of high ideals and the nearest thing to a patriarch that Latvia has.

"George Washingtons" of Baltic

Factions Well Mixed.

"Latvia was in the worst shape of all three countries," the diplomat continued. "The multiplicity of parties had got things into a terrible jam. About 100 members of parliament represent 20 parties. To make things worse every trivial measure had to be passed by parliament—measures an undersecretary in any other country could carry out."

"As in Estonia a new constitution had been agreed upon. In both countries it was a case of one group beating another to it, in putting the constitution in effect. The most nationalistic group won."

"The new governments in Latvia and Estonia might be compared with the Dollfus regime in Austria. They are buttresses against both nazism and socialism and do not pretend to be fascist."

"In Lithuania the situation is somewhat different as Italian fasc-

Establishment of an authoritarian government in Latvia, following the example of its two sister buffer states, Estonia and Lithuania, has put all three on a par with powerful neighbors shown on the map. These two men, Gen. J. Balodis (left) of Latvia, and Gen. J. Laidoner of Estonia, known as the "George Washingtons" of their countries, are supporting the non-parliamentary regimes.

cism is an admitted model for the government," Mussolini is frequently quoted by government leaders.

Foreign Intrigues Seen.

"Latvia and Estonia have no serious difficulties with the big governments neighboring them but Lithuania has territorial controversies with both Germany and Poland. Therefore, in contrast to the other Baltic states, Lithuania has become a land of deep intrigue."

"However, there are strong suspicions that the group which was subdued when the Estonian bloodless revolution took place were sub-

FRENCH BIRTH RATE FALLS WHILE DEATH LISTS GROW

Paris (AP)—French births dropped so sharply in 1933 that advocates of large families are redoubling their efforts.

Nearly 40,000 fewer Frenchmen were born than during the preceding year. The total births were 682,689 as compared with 722,245 in 1932.

Since there were a few more deaths than in the previous year—661,082 as compared with 660,882—the net gain of births over deaths was 21,598, or about one-third that of 1932.

British "Kingdom" In Western China Hits Official Snag

Nanking (AP)—A projected "kingdom" in Sinkiang, also known as Chinese Turkestan, with Dr. Khalid Sheldrake, British-born Mohammedan as ruler, has run up against an official barrier.

The London government has assured the Chinese nationalist authorities here that it will not tolerate any of its subjects attempting to set up any form of independent regime within Chinese territory.

The Nanking officials, however, did not seem perturbed by the reports, which had their genesis in a newspaper story in Singapore.

Real "Cockpit of Asia"

The reports gained some credence because of the tangled political situation in Sinkiang, the real "cockpit of Asia." Because of its situation and geographical peculiarities, the Soviet Union, Great Britain and Japan all keep a weather eye on this district.

The Tien Shan, or "Heavenly Mountains," divide the territory from east to west and there are marked climatic and racial differences between the northern and southern sections.

The south is a combination of deserts and oases inhabited chiefly by Turkomans, Kirgiz and Tungans. The north is a section of rolling hills, forests and pastoral lands.

For two years there has been a three-cornered struggle for power there. Combining with the Turkomans, the Tungans swept southern Sinkiang clear of Chinese administrators, although the latter continue to prevail in the north.

Four Factions Struggle

Then the Turkomans and Tungans split and there was stiff fighting, chiefly around Kashgar in the extreme west. The Tungans won control of that area and latest reports indicated they were spreading their hold over southern Sinkiang.

Meanwhile two Chinese generals have been striving for the privilege of representing the dwindling Chinese influence in the province.

Overshadowing these domestic rivalries is the clash of interests among the greater powers. Sinkiang is a buffer between soviet territory and India and it also borders on Mongolia, a district on which Tokyo has been keeping watch, especially since Outer Mongolia formed a semi-independent soviet several years ago.

STARCH AND WATER PASTE ELIMINATES RODINE STAINS

If you will cover material stained by iodine with a paste made of starch and water and leave it on until the paste becomes powdery and dry, you can just brush off the starch and find the stain gone.

Mud stains can be taken off tan shoes or slippers if a slice of raw potato is applied vigorously.

India Buys Electric Locomotives

Delhi, India (AP)—Two Diesel-electric locomotives have been ordered by the government of India from a concern in Newcastle, England. They are to be of 1,300 hp each.

Paris "House Of Chemistry" Open—Paris (AP)—Science, art and history are blended in the "House of Chemistry," a new international center for chemical research, in the rue Saint Dominique. It is housed in an old mansion which the government purchased from the Rothschild family, owners since 1829.

Last of all the government's alphabetical institutions, we suppose, will come QED.

Today

Kingston: "Upper World." Some very fancy gun play takes place in this terrific triangle, with one woman killed by a jealous lover and the same lover is killed by another man in self defense. It all comes about because Warren William is being neglected by his wife played by Mary Astor. He scouts around for companionship and finds it in Ginger Rogers, but one of her gentleman friends becomes peeved and the shooting starts. It all turns out all right despite a couple of killings, and wife and hubby are together again in the final scene. Andy Devine and Dickie Moore are also in the cast.

Orpheum: "Man's Castle" and "Before Midnight." Director Frank Borzage made an unusual feature in the first feature, the story of a tramp who found redemption through the love and faith of a girl. The plot isn't new, but the way the story is handled and photographed makes it shine with realism and faith. Spencer Tracy and Loretta Young are co-stars. "Before Midnight" is a murder mystery with Ralph Bellamy, June Collyer and Claude Gillingwater in the cast.

Broadway: "Sing and Like It" and "Finishing School." The opening feature is one of the funniest talkies on record. Nat Pendleton, in the role of a soft hearted gangster, decides to make Zazu Pitts a star, success, and he does it, to the everlasting head-aches of Stage Director Edward Everett Horton. Never was comedy and music blended more enjoyably than in this show, and Miss Pitts, Mr. Horton and Mr. Pendleton all star in parts made for their screen talents. It's a laugh vehicle from start to finish and is sure to give any audience more than its full share of laughs. "Finishing School" attempts to disclose what goes on inside one of the institutions which cater to the spoiled daughters of the idle rich. It seems, from the movie angle anyway, that love is the only thing of interest to the inmates. Frances Dee and Ginger Rogers head the cast.

Tomorrow

Kingston: "Little Miss Marker." Damon Runyon, whose story plots are always different, comes through with a novel idea in this vehicle, and although Adolphe Menjou is featured, a small bundle of personality and charm named Shirley Temple runs off with the show completely. Miss Temple isn't over six years of age, but her acting has the skill of a veteran and the conceit of stardom doesn't seem to be in any way a part of her. In the story, this little lady is given over to Adolphe Menjou as security for a gambling debt. Mr. Menjou and his sophisticated cronies are not exactly the type to mold the character of a child, but the child goes them one better and reaches, then a few tricks in sincerity and honesty. Some excellent comedy takes place in this show and the cast is above average. Charles Bickford, Dorothy Dell and Lynne Overmann are featured.

Orpheum: Same.
Broadway: Same.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD: The Chester Morris is building a new swimming pool and bath house, and offhand it might look like a case of "keeping up with the Joneses."
What it might look like, however, happens to be a pet aversion of the Chester Morris.
"We had four years' practice," says Chester, "just in keeping up with the Morrises, and having neither time nor money to bother about the Joneses."
The four years, it might be explained, constituted the period when Chester was under contract to Roland West, the producer who first presented him as the gangster in "Alibi," and the salary wasn't much. For the past year he has been working for himself, and the income is better.

Pool Instead Of Car

"Now that we could afford—and that's said in all modesty—to watch the Joneses," he confides, "we've learned it isn't necessary. That swimming pool; it's just a small one, and we're going to get our money's worth out of it. Know how we're paying for it? By cutting out a new car. The one we have is three years old. I was going to get a new one, but we figured the old one good for two years more. Doing without one thing to get another isn't keeping up with the Joneses."

Customary appointments of movie swank are absent in the Morris ménage. The usual secretary—what is a movie star without a secretary to answer the "phone?"—is present in the person of Eddie McKenna, whose secretarial duties are combined with assorted others. Morris answers his own "phone" when he's home. The staff is completed by a former raucousville actor and his wife who attend to this and that.

No Polo For Chester

Polo—the gentleman's game around Hollywood—is off the Morris list of activities for two reasons. The first is that he believes any actor, depending on his face for his living, is fool-hardy to risk getting it stepped on by a horse. The second is financial.

"A friend of mine who wanted me to take up the game," says Chester, "used to tell me how little it cost—'Just $125 a month,' he said. But he's had to give it up now. The ponies cost too much. He gave me a horse when he got rid of his stable. I kept it out at a riding academy, rode it twice."

"At the end of a month a bill came for $45. Thirty-two fifty per cent. I said, 'Not for Chester' and hired the horse good-bye."

Kenneth Happy Wins Prize Essay Contest

With a very desirable cash prize tucked in his pocket, Kenneth Happy of Kingston, a popular young student at Boston University, was named winner of the annual Boston University Essay Contest, conducted by the University and sponsored by Mrs. Robert Bacon, mother of Lieutenant Governor Gaspar G. Bacon. Announcement of the prize winners was made by the United States Constitution.

Happy's essay on "The Process of Law" was selected by the Supreme Court as the best of the three entries. The contest was held in the 1934 series of three contests, the first being the Boston University Essay Contest, the second the Boston University Essay Contest, and the third the Boston University Essay Contest. Happy's essay was selected from a number of entries as the best of the three.

Sundown Stories

The Hero

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
Christopher Columbus Crow flew over to the next village. The fire was completely out, but he saw a large crowd gathered around something. He couldn't make out what it was. He flew overhead and tried to see what was happening but they were bent over something on the ground.

And then Christopher swooped lower and caught sight of Rip.
"Caw, caw, caw," he shouted.

"Rip, are you all right?"
The people looked up at the crow. Christopher was known all over the countryside. They couldn't understand his talk, although at times they had an idea he was laughing at them, but he could understand them, and now they were saying:

"Rip is a hero—he's the greatest hero we've ever known. We all forgot that some of our children sometimes play in the deserted barn and when we remembered it was Rip, your dog, who went right in with the burning roof crumbling down, and rescued Nancy and John."

"He wouldn't let us pay any attention to him then, although he was suffering with burns, but now that the fire is out we are doing what we can for him."

"Rip," cried Christopher, "Do you feel all right?"
"Now, now, I do, and I'm ready to go home now, I couldn't before."

The people were gathering boxes for Rip, someone else had paid for a new license for him, and he was driven back to Puddle Muddle with all honors. The village band played, the children ran after the automobile shouting:

"We love Rip, we love Rip, we love Rip."

Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER
WASHINGTON—Democrats are beginning to worry that they will be unable to bring about adjournment of congress as quickly as they and President Roosevelt desire.

For one thing, the bill passed by the administration staff bill in the senate, which passed in charge of the bill.

Harbison of Michigan, in charge of the bill, admitted on the floor there was considerable opposition among those favoring the measure, because of the way it was drafted.

It seemed impossible to speed it up, however, Harbison repeatedly attempted to do so, but in every instance ran up against a stone wall.

Huey Long was responsible for much of the delay. He repeatedly attempted to give the President authority to negotiate reciprocal trade agreements, the Louisiana "tariff" made as many as a half-dozen speeches a day on other senators' time besides the long orations he made in his own right.

Long Talks

If only we could find a way to throttle him, was the lament of more than one democratic senator. They couldn't with the result that scenes reminiscent of the dreary struggle over the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill in the Hoover administration were enacted.

Borah of Idaho sent something akin to a shiver down the spines of democratic leaders when he announced his intention of trying to force a vote in the senate before adjournment on the two bills he had introduced to put the anti-trust act's back on business, notwithstanding conformity or non-conformity with NRA.

It doesn't require much foresight to see this opens a broad avenue for congressional foes of NRA to take the fullest advantage of agitation by the Darrow report to force the anti-trust laws to their former operation.

'Pay-Off' Problem

THE desirability with which the house approved the "pay-off" plan in the controversial bank deposit guarantee bill presents another problem capable of delaying adjournment. It is agreed generally that it rests entirely with Mr. Roosevelt whether this measure will be permitted to interfere with the arranged plans.

Meanwhile, the house coasting along with its legislative decks all shipshape, chafes at the tactics of the senate in holding up adjournment. Eager to get back home and start their campaigns for re-election, members are openly resentful.

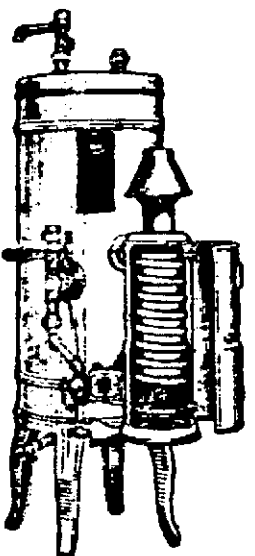

Banton of Texas arose on the floor of the house recently to suggest the constitution gave the President authority to act on his own in this matter. He cited Section III of Article II which provides:

"... in case of disagreement between them (the two houses), with respect to the time of adjournment, he (the President) may adjourn them to such time as he shall think proper."

HOT WATER

IS NO LONGER A LUXURY

Modest incomes are no longer a barrier to the enjoyment of complete year-around and day-around hot water service, in a word automatic hot water supply.

If hot water were priced at so much per hundred gallons delivered in your home, you would readily see the tremendous reduction in cost that has occurred in this community. But since it is purchased in the form of fuel needed to heat and keep hot your faucet hot water supply, and the heater needed to do the work, exact figures are not easy to give.

This much you may know. Today all the hot water used by the average family for baths, cleaning, washing and all other uses may be provided automatically by gas or electricity for 15c per day or less. The best of new heaters may be purchased at a cost averaging no more than 50c per week—much less if some of your present water-heating equipment can be used.

We will gladly give you an exact estimate of the cost for your own home. No obligation of course. It will cost you nothing to learn about this modern convenience.

They ALL found what they wanted
IN THE NEW LEONARD

ALMOST any six women, setting out to look at electric refrigerators, will start in six different directions.

Isn't it interesting that so many such shoppers—each with a different idea of what a good refrigerator really is—find "exactly what they want" in the Leonard Electric? The reason is that the new Leonard is the complete refrigerator. No woman need sacrifice any desirable feature to get others she values more.

See the new Leonard at our showrooms, before you decide on any electric refrigerator. There are 11 beautiful models (5 all-porcelain).

ings like how throughout their period of service and even to those that serve in the latter still. The New York state college of home economics, through its clothing experts, tells how it can be done.

Silk stockings need to be washed after every wearing, they say. If perspiration acids are washed out promptly rather than left to accumulate, the first rule in the foot is postponed. Furthermore, they need to be washed in milk soap and handled as carefully as the most delicate article in the wardrobe. No soap, however, mild, should be rubbed directly on the silk. The soap should be dissolved in hot water and the foot water cooled to lukewarm, before the stockings are put in it. After squeezing the stockings out, with a little special attention to the feet, rinse them three times in three clear waters, squeeze the water out of them, and hang them to dry away from any direct heat. And never never approach them with a hot iron!

Proper washing is not quite enough, however. Stockings should be bought carefully. A stocking after shrinking should be a good half-inch longer than the foot and the right length for the leg. Stockings that have always given good service should be bought again. Paying ten cents more for a better stocking is more than a good investment if it wears half again as long. Too tight hose supporters, too sharp fingernails, and snags on furniture are among the worst enemies of silk stockings.

The danger of the disease "occidiosis" breaking out in a brood of young chickens is prevalent until about 12 weeks after they are hatched, say poultry experts.

WORD "TREASURE" ON TOMB

BLAMED FOR OPEN GRAVE

Miami, Fla. (AP)—The lonely grave of William S. Milliken has just been invaded by ghouls—the second time in 8 years—and the countryfolk nearby blame it on the word "treasure" in his epitaph.

It reads: "Yet, all is well: God's good design I see. That where our treasure is. Our hearts may be."

Tradition has it that Milliken, a surveyor from Seaboard, Me., was killed by Seminole Indians in 1876 and was buried where he fell.

Los Angeles (AP)—For 47 consecutive years Mr. and Mrs. Fred V. Danowicz have marked the anniversary of their honeymoon with leisurely trips recently by auto to various parts of the United States, Canada and Mexico. Their earliest trips were with horse and wagon. Now, both 76 years old, they are touring in a luxurious, electrically equipped camp car of steel with built-in conveniences.

A Dream Walking

New York—Just how far the feeling for dressed-up nightgowns is going to go is hard to say. Judging from lingerie collections designed for brides and week-enders, there is no limit to the formality of the night dress. It's not that they are made of more formal fabrics. How could they be, since lovely satins and rich laces have been staple for years?

But the mode has come in for formalizing, for daring silhouettes and high necklines. We illustrate what we mean. It's absurd to create the impression that such gowns are highly practical, but they represent the type chosen for special occasions. In a summer in which so much cotton is worn it is only natural to suppose that the lingerie sections in our best shops should be ready for a demand for dainty cotton slips and nighties, but strangely enough, these things lack the appeal of cotton outer things.

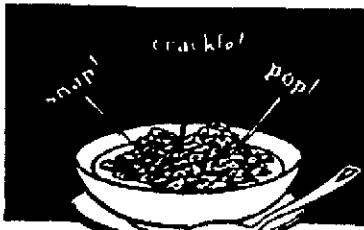

Tulle slips are wanted, but that's easy enough to understand when one considers how many transparent dresses are being chosen, especially for this month so crowded with engagements, weddings and other exciting events.

White lingerie is increasing in use, but is nearly always trimmed with the richly tinted Alencons laces, although bichre and Valenciennes are also used.

Even for lounging one hears less of pajamas. There are, of course, some shown and selected for the sake of change and to provide the necessary balance. But in order as well as outer clothes girls will be girls.

Pete Noah, 23, of Hugo, Okla., was relieved of brain pressure resulting from a head injury eight years before, by an operation lasting four and one-half hours.

OUR DAILY PATTERNS

Pattern 8239

Cool and becoming frock. Most of us need a frock that is not only useful but also becoming to wear while we go about our household tasks. The smart long lines of the notched collar and vestee are becoming to the larger woman and the lines of the skirt make the hips look slender. A clever bit of trimming to relieve the severity is the small bow at the end of the collar.

Box pleats give the required width, making this model with ease. Bright prints, plaids, stripes and solid colors vie with each other in the stores, and make the choice of material difficult but delightful. Designed in sizes: 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 44 requires 4 1/2 yards of 37 inch material with 5 yard contrasting.

Important Concert Held At Newburgh

Combined Musical Clubs of Free Academy, Under Robert Williams, Gave Spring Festival—Concert Well Received.
A concert of importance to the entire central Hudson valley, occurred at Newburgh on Thursday evening when the Combined Musical Clubs of the Newburgh Free Academy, Robert Williams, conductor, gave their annual spring festival concert. Between 150 and 200 young people took part in a program that would have done great credit to mature musical organization.

The manner in which they sang or played showed that they were extraordinarily conversant with the best in musical literature, whether vocal or instrumental. It further showed hours upon hours of careful rehearsal in groups, with the most earnest attention to the conductor. In the instrumental groups there had evidently been a vast amount of practice by the students individually.
Those Kingstonians who were so fortunate as to attend the concert, were vividly reminded of the days of our musical festivals in Kingston, with this difference: The Kingston festivals were given by adult and well-trained musicians, while the one in Newburgh last evening was given entirely by high school students.
Taken in the order of their appearance, the A Cappella Chorus organized in 1933 included 42 mixed voices. There was purity of tone, and quality as well; the young people showed the best of technical training and developed musical impressions that made for discrimination and artistic interpretation. Their singing of Handel's "Vergil's Meadows" and Elgar's "Aspen Meadows" from Haydn's Oratorio of "The Creation" with orchestra was something to be musically very proud of, and that includes the three soloists.

The Edward MacDowell Glee Club of 21 young men, organized in 1930, had a resonant quality of tone that would have done credit to a group of men singers of experience. The well modulated voices and general training made for artistic performance of all of their songs, but especially of "The Heavens Resound," by Beethoven; "The Southland Garden," by Loomis; "The Bellman," by Forster and the "Pilgrims Chorus" from "Tannhauser" by Wagner.
Still a third group that was very interesting was The Chaminade Choral Club composed of 25 high school girls. It was organized in 1925. This club had a distinctive quality of crispness and sparkling clearness of tone, particularly in the higher register, that was fascinating because of the fresh young voices. All of their songs were excellent with a special word for the gay "Italian Street Song" from "Naughty Marietta," by Victor Herbert.

So much for what the young singers of the Newburgh Free Academy can do as concert performers.
Instrumental Clubs.
The first instrumental club to be heard was the Newburgh Free Academy Orchestra, numbering sixty players. This is by far the oldest group in the Academy, there having been an orchestra there since 1886, and so, ever since Mr. Williams came to Newburgh in 1924.
It is a pretty well balanced orchestra, though additional "cells" would add much to the string choir.

which is remarkably fine, and what a program for any orchestra of young musicians to undertake. The instrumental as well as the vocal groups were distinguished for their perfect attack and release, showing a rare mutual understanding between musicians and conductor. The orchestra played with dash and appreciation of the individual purpose of the classic Handel number, the colorfully modern later work, the characteristic Greek composition, and the brilliant and unusual Halvorsen composition.
In its own sphere, the Newburgh Free Academy Band was as remarkable as the orchestra, although founded as late as 1924. It had 41 young men in its ranks. They presented a very manly appearance in their white suits with black bow ties, all heightened by the gleam of the metal instruments. This band fully deserves the title of "Concert Band." These young musicians had attained three requisites for excellent band music—controlled tonality, perfect rhythm, exact attack and release. While every number was thrilling and well played, the most artistic and admirably given was the "Lustspiel Overture," of Suppe.
Nancy Miller and Vivian Bullock were the admirable accompanists.
The musical portion for the future here. Amongst the young people of the Newburgh Free Academy are upwards of 200 vocal and instrumental musicians, already acquainted with considerable of the best musical literature. They, like their predecessors and successors, will go out into their own city and surrounding communities, carrying the gospel and tradition of "only the best in music is good enough." Through them and their concert large musical audiences are being trained to listen with appreciation to good music and to want it, an enviable accomplishment already and prophetic for the future. Newburgh is to be profoundly congratulated upon having such a musician as Robert Williams to train the young people in the Free Academy, and the entire central Hudson valley is bound to feel the impetus derived from such a musical center.

Checking Traffic on State Highways

Cars Parked at Certain Points All Day and All Night Have Caused Speculation as to Their Purpose.

Mysterious automobiles which have been observed parked at various points along main highways during the past few days have caused comment by the traveling public.

These cars have been observed parked at certain points all day and all night and have caused much speculation as to their purpose.

The answer is that a survey is being made by the state of traffic conditions on the state's main highways.

For several years a count has been made of cars on main arteries at some time during the summer. In the past this survey has been a rather informal matter with the count being taken once a year for daylight hours only.

Now the state is desirous of having full and complete statistics on travel on the state's highways and men are stationed at various points to take a count of all vehicles on the highways.

The count will be made 24 hours a day for several days and vehicles are being classified whether trucks, passenger cars and also out of state cars.

It is expected that this census will be valuable in determining future highway construction in the state. Four such counts will be taken at various seasons of the year. The first count is now on.

The announcement was made by Chairman John J. Phelan after both boxers had been given an exhaustive examination at commission headquarters by three commission doctors.

No vote in the commission was necessary as the decision of the physicians as to a fighter's condition made the action mandatory under the laws of the state.

Two of the three members of the commission, previously had expressed themselves as in favor of holding the fight as scheduled while only Bill Brown had said he believed Baer was not in shape to fight and that the bout should be postponed.

Reports from Baer's camp at Asbury Park, N. J., had indicated Ma was in none too good condition and a blowoff came yesterday when Commissioner Brown viewed his workout and announced he was in favor of postponing the fight for a month or calling it off altogether.

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy and Mayor C. J. Heiselman will motor to Jamestown on Monday, the fire chief to attend the annual convention of state fire chiefs while the mayor will attend the mayors' conference, both conventions being held in Jamestown next week.

Fire Chief Murphy is now first vice-president of the state association and it is expected that he will be elected president at the annual convention which opens Tuesday and Thursday.

Mayor Heiselman will represent Kingston at the mayors' conference and will extend an invitation to that organization to meet in Kingston in 1935. The city of Rochester is also anxious to have the 1935 convention and a spirited fight for the convention is expected.

The monthly meeting of the service and hospitality committee was held at the home of Mrs. Roy Clark of Tillson on Wednesday, June 6. Plans were made to hold a variety program some time soon. George Kennedy will be the director and a fine program will be arranged. Refreshments will be free.

At the last meeting of the Grange memorial services were conducted by Past Lecturer Henry Mollenhauer. The services were very impressive and the songs were beautifully sung by Jesse Gallagher and Nettie Rowe.

Those taking the different parts were: Lila Mollenhauer, Hazel Conklin, Myrtle DeMar, Jeannette Conklin, Ruth Hotelling, Carrie Brodsky, Jessie Gallagher, Nettie Rowe, Mrs. Gurnett, Mrs. A. Merrieth and Gordon Relyea. The pianist was Mrs. C. Van Nodall. The stage was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and ferns given by Mrs. Merle Thorpe.

THE LAKE KATRINE P-T. A. WILL MEET TUESDAY, JUNE 12

They Fleeced Gully Lamer.
After first entering a plan of net gully and having their bearings set down for Saturday morning Elton Richerson of Murphy street and Miller Glenford of Kerhonkson, both returned later to police court and entered pleas of guilty to disorderly conduct, and were fined $25 each. Unable to pay their fines they were committed to the county jail to serve one day for each dollar of the fine not paid. They had been picked up on Jay's Lane Thursday night when the policeman found them partially disrobed and under the influence of liquor.

The annual meeting of the water board will be held this evening at the city hall, and as the board is still under Democratic control it is not expected that any changes will be made in the personnel of the officers of the board. William D. Cashin is superintendent of the board and Henry S. Jacobs is clerk.

Tokyo, June 8 (AP)—Japan, which departed Geneva in anger last year, today made known today she would not join the League of Nations.

Market for Fruits And Vegetables
New York, June 8 (AP)—State Department of Agriculture and Markets.
The following quotations represent prices on sales by commission merchants and other original receivers on the New York city downtown wholesale district up to 8 a. m. The first of northern New Jersey's 1934 new crop celery peddled out at principally $6.00 per crate. Lettuce values remained about unchanged. Crates containing 2 dozen heads of Big Boston were reported at mainly 50c-75c. Romaine in similar size packages worked out very slowly at 25c-40c. Lighter supplies and a better demand resulted in a slight price advance for attractive quality strawberries. Hudson valley sold at 10c-13c per quart basket, while Long Island offerings ranged from 9c-15c. Early varieties of sweet cherries were mainly of small size and jobbed out slowly at around 10c per quart basket and from 50c-65c per four quart climax basket. The market for attractive quality green peas was steady. Supplies from New Jersey were moderate and sales were reported at $1.25-$2.25. White cabbage of the pointed type from New Jersey peddled out from 50c-75c. Low prices continued to feature the market for spinach as the demand was again limited and supplies fairly liberal. Varieties from nearby producing sections peddled out from 15c-35c per bushel basket. DANCE OF DOLLARS HELD BY RAIN IN DRY WEST
St. Paul, Minn., June 8 (AP)—Rain drummed a dance of dollars on the sun-baked farm lands of the north-west today. West $50,000,000 by one expert's estimate in North Dakota alone, the steady downpour flooded fields in nearly every section of the drought-stricken states of Minnesota and the Dakotas. Secretary of Agriculture Wallace conferred here today with drought relief directors and announced that despite the break in the drought the federal government will continue its relief program. The plan contemplates supplying 30,000,000 bushels of seed to northwest farmers for next year's crops. THE JOINERS

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

Talking about great fights and fighters around the inside at the McLaughlin-Ross bout, which drew more of the old guard and the old flavor back to the little arena than anything in recent years, the name of Stanley Ketchel brought a quick response from Harry Smith, dean of the San Francisco clan.

"I'll never forget the match he fought with Joe Thomas some 25 or 26 years ago," remarked Harry. "I have been peering at quite a few of the boys over a stretch of time, but the Thomas-Ketchel match, fought at Marysville, near Sacramento, was to my mind the most exciting I have ever witnessed anywhere, in any division."

At that time Thomas was a sort of synthetic-welter champion but he did not figure to be a real match for the slugger Ketchel. They fought 32 terrific rounds, however, before Ketchel won on a knockout. The limit was 40 rounds. Thomas at several of the earlier stages appeared to have Ketchel on the way out and certainly in distress but Stanley fought back like a tiger and finally finished his man by the sheer ferocity of his attack.

Gans Greatest of All
Pound for pound, whom did he consider the greatest fighter?
"Joe Gans, without a question, to my way of thinking," replied Harry. "There have been some great little men but Gans was a marvel. He was not only fast and a great boxer but he packed a real wallop. He had an uncanny gift for sensing where a punch was going to land and picking it off."

Among the heavyweights, it's Harry's conclusion after seeing most of them and weighing the opinion of those who antedate his own experience that the old boilermaker, James J. Jeffries, was probably the greatest of all the heavyweight champions.

"Jeffries was beyond his prime when I saw him in the ring," said Smith, "but the record seems to be that he could take more punishment and come back stronger, over any distance, than any other heavyweight before or since. Jeff was not as clever as Johnson or Corbett, nor as dynamic as Dempsey, but he was packed like a redwood tree and he packed a terrific punch."

The Upswing Is On
What about the forthcoming Primo Carnera-Max Baer heavyweight party, due for decision in the Madison Square Garden bowl on June 14?

"It's a tough one to pick," responded Smith, "but from what I have seen of both I think Baer CAN win if he quits clowning and really goes after the big fellow. There is no question Baer has the punch but he is erratic. Despite Carnera's shortcomings, the big Italian makes the most of his size and reach. He is a lot smarter in the ring than he is given credit for."

The extraordinary interest shown in the McLaughlin-Ross fracas as well as the heavyweight championship brawl marks a definite turning point in the fight game. The upswing appears to have arrived.

The willingness of the cash customers to rally, however, after a protracted period in which they have stayed away from the arenas in large numbers, seems to hinge upon the continuance of first-class attractions.

The New York Giants, back in the lead, continued to lambaste Boston pitching and defeated the Braves 14 to 5.

The Brooklyn Dodgers took a 1 to 0 decision from the Phillies and retained sixth place.

Tigers Tighten Grip
Mickey Cochrane's Detroit Tigers consolidated their position at the head of the American League by trouncing Cleveland 11 to 6 while the Yankees and Red Sox decided it was too cold for a game at Boston.

The Indians dropped into a virtual tie with the St. Louis Browns, who rallied for three runs in the ninth to beat the Chicago White Sox 5 to 3.

Washington's Senators won the other game, beating the Athletics 7 to 5.

Hundreds of planters in five counties surrounding Durham, N. C., have organized the Farmers' Mutual exchange for buying their necessities and selling their products.

The Best Putting Stroke.

Armore, Pa., June 5.—With the U. S. Open under way, the argument broke out as to what constituted the best type of putting stroke—the longer stroking method of Bobby Jones, Walter Hagen and Horton Smith—or three examples—or the shorter, tapping methods of Paul Runyan and Billy Burke.

A large number of the pros—who are also instructors—favored the longer, smoother stroking methods of the first three named.

"That's O. K. when it's working," another pro said, "but it can break up quicker—especially under heavy pressure. You may recall the fact that after so many years both Jones and Hagen had their share of putting troubles, trying to control the longer, smoother putting swing. When a golfer is under heavy pressure there is an inclination to do just a little tapping, or tapping. If he knows he is going to do this he can control it. It is when he tries to swing the putter and then stops or jabs that the big trouble comes."

"Here's another angle," another expert remarked. "Under pressure I believe you can control the shorter backswing better—especially on keen, fast greens. Most championship greens are just this—about as slippery as ice or glass. You can have more confidence in your putting with the light, short tap."

"I'll admit that in theory the longer backswing is correct—but, theory or no theory, it demands perfect nerve control and coordination, which are not always at hand. There are days or spots when you are jumpy and you know it—and yet you can find no way to correct the fault or rather the condition. That happened to Tommy Armour and Walter Hagen several times this last winter. It happened to Bobby Jones at Augusta."

Holding the Line to the Cup
There is no questioning the fact that it is easier to hold the line with a shorter putting backswing, especially on putts from three to ten feet. On approach putts of thirty feet or more, the longer backswing, the stroking method, is the safest to follow.

It was conceded in advance that putting was to play a big part in this open championship. It always does. It is usually the deciding factor. The Merion galleries will have a great chance to study the systems, methods or styles employed by those whose main business is to get the ball into the cup—if they are to get anywhere in this hectic scramble.

Kaslichs After 5th Victory Against Yonkers Tonight, 6:15

The Yonkers Valley All Stars off the Bronx will oppose Nick Kaslich's A. C. at the Athletic Field this evening at 6:15 in a game that is expected to present lots of action to a large turnout of baseball fans.

Ever since the announcement that the Kaslichs would play the Yonkers club, followers of the billiard parlor representatives have been anxious about how they will make out in their bid to stretch their wins to five against this strong aggregation. So far the uptown pool shooters have won four out of five contests.

Manager Jimmy Burns today said his lineup for the Kaslichs would be Dewey Van Buren, pitcher; Bill Messing, catcher; Ed Minasian, 3b; Ray Gadd, ss; Colvin, 2b; Tony Debrosky, 1b; Al Flanagan, cf; Keefe Chambers, rf; Jimmy Steigewald, lf; El Smith, Hank Cragan and Charlie Tiano, reserves.

Yonkers will come here with three pitchers—Gray, Karl and Cherinot. Beck and Ormond are the catchers. The infield is comprised of O'Brien, at first, Coe second, Menendez, shortstop and Ungarsky, third. In the outer garden are Bennett, lf; Barker, cf, and Grohan, rf. There are 14 men on the roster of the club.

Former Mayor of St. Louis Leaves Wife in Miami And Starts For Kentucky—Moral Charges Are Withdrawn.
Miami, Fla., June 4 (AP)—Former Mayor of St. Louis, S. J. "Boss" E. P. Barker, Jr., was reported to have left his wife in Miami and started for Kentucky, and charged with adultery.

State charges of adultery were first placed against the couple, but later that day a second warrant was issued charging Sch. held with violation of the Mann Act.

R. A. Hendricks, attorney for Mrs.

Miller and Schofield, announced the results of a four day conference between attorneys and their principals, with the agreement carrying these provisions:

The property of Victor Miller be divided equally between him and his wife, Mrs. Miller, to apply for and receive, and make a final report to the Westchester County, N. Y., court in which she was named the former mayor's legal guardian last fall after he was declared incompetent.

With Mrs. Miller's report and resignation, Julius C. Miller is to apply to the court asking to be appointed guardian. Also dropped is the injunctive action brought by Victor Miller against Schofield to prevent sale of an estate and yacht here and use of a bank account.

Swansboro, N. C., was named for beautiful white swans found by an English sea captain, Daniel Bates, who explored that section and set-

Prohibition And Suffrage On Personal Program Of Mexico's Next President

By CLARK G. LEE

Mexico, D. F. (AP).—Barring unpredictable developments, General Lazaro Cardenas, 49-year-old veteran of revolutionary campaigns, will be elected 45th constitutional president of the republic on July 1. Lack of any effective opposition virtually reduces the voting to a formality.

With the opposition divided into three disorganizing factions, and apparently discouraged from any forceful action by the threat of the powerful government party to "answer violence with violence," the campaign has been lacking in general interest.

Outstanding personalities and issues have likewise been absent. Cardenas' program, the 6-year plan of the national revolutionary party, or "P. N. R.," was written long before he was nominated last December, and much of it has already been put into effect by President Abelardo Rodriguez.

Advances Ideas of Own.
 Under this plan, Rodriguez has already established a semi-government petroleum company, made plans for a semi-official electric light and power company, has speeded up the aerarian program and pushed highway projects. Cardenas' work, therefore will be for the most part a continuation of steps taken by Rodriguez.

The soldier-candidate has indicated, however, that he will possibly go outside the 6-year plan, which has been described by Ambassador Joseph Daniels as "Mexico's new deal and square deal."

Cardenas is reported to favor passage of a national prohibition law and also legislation to enable women to take a greater part in politics and government.

Rumors of disagreements between Cardenas and other leaders of the party, reportedly displeased with some of the candidate's ideas, have been in circulation for some time but there have been no developments to confirm them.

Opposition Field Shrinks.
 In preparation for his 6-year term in the presidency, which he expects to assume December 1, Cardenas has served as governor of the state of Michoacan, president of the P. N. R. and for a short term as secretary of war. Brief as this experience in public office has been, Cardenas would enter the presidency with a thorough personal knowledge of the country. He has spent six months in an intensive campaign tour.

General Antonio I. Villarreal, candidate of the confederation of revolutionary independent parties, received unexpected support late in the campaign by the withdrawal of Gilberto Valenzuela, nominee of the anti-re-electionist group, who was unwilling to abandon his exile in El Paso, Tex., and risk facing old charges of rebellion.

Roman Badillo, the anti-re-electionist candidate who had been carrying on a speaking campaign, also withdrew, and many of Valenzuela's supporters said they would vote for Villarreal, since he represented virtually the same political opinion as their candidate.

Both of these opposition groups support the ideals of the revolution but object to the methods of the present government leaders.

Tejeda Plans "Other Means."
 Colonel Adelberto Tejeda, former governor of Vera Cruz, has perhaps the strongest personal following of the oppositionists, consisting chiefly of agrarians in his home state. But he has said he has no hope of winning the election.

Early in the campaign Tejeda announced his intention of using "other means" to put into effect his socialistic program.

The third opposition candidate, Hernan La Borde, describes himself as a communist and has the backing of the peasants and workers' league, an organization of undetermined strength.

100th Anniversary of Worcester Academy

Worcester Academy, well known New England preparatory school, observed its 100th anniversary at the commencement exercises held at the academy today, when a class of 95 was graduated. Saturday will be centennial day and hundreds of alumni and friends are expected to visit the school and join in the anniversary events.

A number of Wester county men are former students and graduates of the academy. Two of them, lately deceased, were Chester Young, late treasurer of the Worcester Academy, who died at Narragansett April 27, and Robert S. Terhune, who died in Ellenville May 22.

St. Paul Social Supper.
 The Ladies Aid of St. Paul's Lutheran church will hold a social and supper Wednesday, June 17, at 8 o'clock. The menu includes creamed chicken, mashed potatoes, green beans, sausage salad, celery, rolls, strawberry shortcake and coffee. Ice cream will be for sale.

Some citizens of Atlanta, Ga., opposed the building of street railways many years ago, contending the streets were too narrow for trolley cars.

New Deal Not So New Ogden L. Mills Says

Utica, N. Y., June 5.—The "New Deal" program, in the opinion of Ogden L. Mills, former secretary of the treasury, involves principles used by the Romans which held European progress in stagnation 1500 years by depriving individuals of their liberty.

In an address last night before the Association of Younger Republicans of Utica, Mills declared that the "New Deal" if continued, would lead to "retrogression."

Mills spoke for the new National Republican Builders, Inc. Delivering a vigorous attack on the Roosevelt policies, he called upon sympathetic Democrats to form an organization similar to the Builders to "insist upon development of American lines."

He repeated his claim that the "New Deal" means regimentation and planned economy by government, and asserted that "it means death of individual freedom as we have understood it in the United States."

"That is why I am impatient," he said, "with those men who are unable to face the issue and assail their critics with a cry of 'reactionary'." The reactionaries are men who are turning back 150 years.

The whole "New Deal" program, he continued, is based on the conception that the economic life of a nation may be planned, "but which conception pre-supposes a static and stabilized industry. We know it is fluid, dynamic and in process of continuous change. The conception of the plan must depend upon ability to prophesy and see far into the future."

— a reason

FRANKLY, one of the chief reasons why I enjoy Chesterfield is the fact that I don't get little crumbs of tobacco in my mouth.

Rarely ever do I find a Chesterfield that isn't well filled. The tobacco in them seems to be of the right length, and they must be the right size because they burn right and smoke right.

I like them also because they are milder.
